

Currently

the Department of Environmental Conservation certifies only commercially sold shellfish due to the cost and resources required to certify all 33,000 thousand miles of Alaska's coast. Scanlan says he'd like to see legislation introduced that would fund monitoring of public beaches for PSP.

###