Coming up this week, a Rhode Island professor says individual catch shares are bad for fishing communities, the National Marine Fisheries Service is testing electronic observing methods, and we get the mixed forecast for Prince William Sound salmon. All that, and the Department of Fish and Game briefs the legislature. We had help from KMXT's Brianna Gibbs in Kodiak, KCAW's Robert Woolsey in Sitka, KCHU's Tony Gorman in Valdez and KDLG's Mike Mason in Dillingham.
