

Young Leaders Discuss Alaska's Future

Wednesday, 22 May 2013

{audio}/images/stories/mp3/130522.eld_reception.mp3{/audio}

Brianna Gibbs/KMXT

About 60 young professionals from all around Alaska are in Kodiak this week for the annual Emerging Leaders Dialogue. The three day conference is hosted by the Institute of the North and features workshops and discussions about Alaska's future, and how to better engage younger generations. Last night dialogue participants hosted a community reception. KMXT's Brianna Gibbs was there and filed this report.