

Temporary Replacement Sought as Tusty Remains Laid Up

Friday, 31 May 2013

{audio}/images/stories/mp3/130531.tustumena.mp3{/audio}

Lauren Rosenthal/KUCB

In mid July, the state ferry Tustumena is supposed to have repairs wrapped and return to service. But a shipyard spokesman says that delivery date isn't looking very realistic any more.

As the state faces yet another blown deadline for getting the Tustumena back in service, they've started looking for other ships to pick up the ferry's route. KUCB's Lauren Rosenthal has more.