Former Kodiak City Councilman Tom Walters has been re-appointed to the Alaska Aerospace Corporation board of directors, along with David Weldon, a former Florida congressman.

Walters, a local helicopter pilot, has served on the board for six years. He was first appointed while on the Kodiak City Council, where he served for 18 years. He was reappointed to the state-owned corporation as a member representing Kodiak and the private business sector.

Weldon represented Florida's 15th Congressional District for 14 years and co-founded the Congressional Aerospace Caucus. He was reappointed to represent the aerospace industry.
