In a release, ASMI spokesman Tyson Fick said the image impressed the ASMI board and committee members who voted for Squartsoff's photo out of a field of over 100 entries.

In the statement, Squartsoff said her cooking stems from her Native heritage and lifestyle, and most of the proteins come from the sea.

She wins a winter's worth of Alaska seafood and a GoPro Hero camera.
