

Young Bald Eagle Trapped in Unalaska Store

Friday, 20 December 2013

{audio}/images/stories/mp3/131220.unalaska_ships_eagle.mp3{/audio}

A young bald eagle is seen perching in the rafters of the Alaska Ship Supply store in Unalaska Wednesday. KUCB photo

Annie Ropeik/KUCB

A department store in Unalaska had an unwelcome customer for about three hours Wednesday night -- a bald eagle, which flew in a loading door and refused to leave. The juvenile bird flew around the Alaska Ship Supply store for about three hours before state troopers and employees were able to get it out. KUCB's Annie Ropeik has this report from the scene.

See a video of the bird's adventure here.