Tonight the Kodiak Island Borough Assembly will hold its first meeting of the New Year, and a busy one at that. Tonight's agenda is especially full and includes items from the assembly's December meeting that was cancelled due to lack of a quorum.

On the list tonight is a series of contract approvals, including construction administration services for work on the Fisheries Research Center, as well as a collective bargaining agreement with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Also on tonight's agenda is a resolution to adopt the 2014 borough communities state legislative capital improvements project priority list, which includes the state funding wish lists for Kodiak's surrounding villages.

Tonight's meeting starts at 7: 30 p.m. in the borough conference room and will be broadcast live on KMXT.
