

State Looking to Donate 6K Cases of Pinks to Philippines

Wednesday, 12 February 2014

Jay Barrett/KMXT

The State of Alaska is looking for someone to supply over 6,000 cases of pink salmon to be donated to disaster relief efforts in the Philippines. That adds up to nearly 150,000 15-ounce cans.

In an announcement this week, the State Department of Commerce, Community & Economic Development, is soliciting bids for the purchase and shipment of the salmon to Cebu.

The state did not give an estimate of what the salmon and shipping might cost, but they did specify it must be Alaskan.

Interested parties can contact the Division of Administrative Services for more information and necessary documents. Bids will be opened on February 19th.