

NOAA Launches Ocean Acidity Study

Friday, 21 November 2008

{audio}/images/stories/mp3/081121.ocean_acid_study.mp3{/audio}

Jay Barrett/KMXT

Worried

that too much carbon dioxide in the world's oceans might kill off the base of the marine food chain, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the National Science Foundation have commissioned a panel to study ocean acidification.