

The Alaska Fisheries Report with Jay Barrett

Friday, 16 January 2009

{audio}/images/stories/mp3/090115.alaska_fisheries_report.mp3{/audio}

Coming up

on this week's show, a salmon processor in Ketchikan files for bankruptcy; they're talking halibut in Vancouver, and sea ice is hampering the Bering Sea crab season. Plus why canned pinks are so popular, all on this week's edition of the Alaska Fisheries Report.

We had help

from KSTK's Tony Gorman in Wrangell, KFSK's Matt Lichtenstein in Petersburg; KUCB's Anne Hillman in Unalaska; KDLG's Adam Kane in Dillingham, and KBBI's Casey Kelly in Homer.