The first
Kodiak Island Borough Beautification Awards were presented at last week's assembly meeting. Three awards were presented, for individual, residential and commercial.

Mayor Jerome Selby made the announcement:

-- (Beauty 1 50 sec "This is the inaugural ... keep up the great work.")

Assemblywoman
Judy Fulp, who ran on a platform of beautification, said many people helped make the awards a reality:

-- (Beauty 2 42 sec "I really appreciate ... and this will be a start.")

Selby said
the residence award went to a family that's made a largely commercial stretch
of town more eye-pleasing:

-- (Beauty 3 17 sec "The residence award ... drive by and see.")

The
business award went to the owners of the Kodiak Inn, but for their new project
just down the road:

-- (Beauty 4 32 sec "The
final award ... part of that operation.")

Selby said
he's looking forward to even more entries for next year's awards. All residents can help with beautifying Kodiak in just over a month. Kodiak Spring Clean Up Day is set for May 2nd.
